Code of Ethics Policy

I. PURPOSE

Grand Traverse County maintains certain policies to guide its employees and appointed and elected officials with respect to standards of conduct expected in fields where improper activities could damage the County's reputation and otherwise result in serious adverse consequences to the County and to the employees involved.

The purpose of this policy is to set forth and affirm, in a comprehensive statement, required standards of conduct and practices. All employees and appointed or elected officials' actions are significant indications of the individual's judgment and competence. Accordingly, those actions constitute an important element in the evaluation of the employee for retention, position assignments, and promotion. Correspondingly, insensitivity to or disregard of the principles of this policy will be grounds for appropriate management disciplinary action.

II. POLICY & PROCEDURE

Where government is based on the consent of the governed, every citizen is entitled to have complete confidence in the integrity of his/her government. The public judges its County government by the way County employees and appointed and elected officials conduct themselves in the performance of their respective duties. Devotion to the public trust is an essential part of public service. County employees and appointed and elected officials are the trustees of an important branch of our system of government in which the people must be able to place their absolute trust for the preservation of their health, safety, and welfare.

The proper operation of democratic government requires that County employees, elected and appointed officials be independent, impartial and responsible to the people. County employees and appointed and elected officials must avoid all situations where prejudice, bias, or opportunity for personal gain could influence their decisions. Even the appearance of improper conduct should be avoided.

The purpose of these standards is to provide each employee and appointed and elected officials with clear expectations regarding his/her conduct in the performance of his/her public responsibilities and to give the citizens a standard by which they may be assured that these responsibilities are being faithfully performed.

III. APPLICATION

The standards of ethical conduct set forth in the Code of Ethics shall be applicable without exception to all employees. Nothing in the Code shall be interpreted as denying any employee his/her rights under the law. In every proceeding with regard to these standards, fundamental due process shall be provided. Employees and officials must faithfully discharge their duties to the best of their ability without regard to age, race, creed, sex, national origin, or political belief. The public interest must be their primary concern and their conduct in official affairs should be above reproach.
