Subject: The New Dating Scene

On Tuesday, June 7 at 6:00 p.m. the Senior Center in Traverse City will be hosting "The New Dating Scene" a special presentation about on line dating sponsored by Comfort Keepers.

Online dating is losing its stigma and it's never been easier or had more options available. According to the Pew Research Center, 12% of 55- to 64-year-olds report using an online dating site or mobile dating app versus only 6% in 2013. And furthermore, 5% of Americans who are in a marriage or committed relationship say they met their significant other online.

During the presentation, Mike Sheehan, 77, retired English professor, will share his personal story of online dating success and tips anyone can use to find love and companionship online.

"Don't be shy - bring a friend to "The New Dating Scene" a fun, relaxed presentation where you can learn how to create a great online profile," says Ericca Hovie, Program Coordinator. Men and women are encouraged to attend and wine and cheese will be served. Advance registration required.
